

JOSEPH A. ALUTTO

Joseph A. Alutto was appointed executive vice president and provost of The Ohio State University on October 11, 2007. He had been named to that post in an interim capacity on July 1, 2007.

Also on July 1, 2007, he became interim president of the university. Dr. Alutto served as the institution's chief executive officer until September 30, 2007.

Prior to these appointments, he was dean of the Max M. Fisher College of Business, The Ohio State University, for 16 years. He was named the John W. Berry, Sr. Chair in Business, on September 1, 1999. Immediately prior to his appointment as dean, Dr. Alutto was the Clarence S. Marsh Professor of Management at the State University of New York at Buffalo, focusing his research on Sino-U.S. joint ventures and the relationships between improvement processes and corporate performance. He also served as dean of the SUNY-Buffalo School of Management from 1976 to 1990. Dr. Alutto received his bachelor's degree in business administration from Manhattan College, a master's degree in industrial relations from the University of Illinois, and a Ph.D. in organizational behavior from Cornell University.

Effective July 1, 1998, Dr. Alutto was named executive dean for the professional colleges at The Ohio State University. While continuing to serve as dean of the Fisher College, as executive dean, Dr. Alutto coordinated the activities of the Colleges of Engineering; Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences; Education and Human Ecology; Law, and Social Work and represented the interests of those colleges in university-wide decision-making bodies.

In addition to Dr. Alutto's experience as an administrator, he is a leading authority on managerial behavior, having coauthored a book on research methods in organizational research and more than 65 articles in academic journals such as Administrative Science Quarterly, Academy of Management Journal, Journal of Applied Psychology, and Industrial and Labor Relations Review. He has lectured widely in China on management issues and was part of the U.S. Department of Commerce and People's Republic of China State Economic Commission's National Center for Science and Technology Management Development. He pioneered the first Sino-U.S. jointly funded MBA program offered in the People's Republic of China in 1984. Dr. Alutto was appointed as advisor to the First Session of Council for the Dalian Behavioral Sciences Association, has been the first international dean for the Dalian University School of Business, served as a visiting professor at the College of Management, Zhejiang University, and lectured at universities throughout China. He has been a visible and active advocate for advanced management education and research in China.

Dr. Alutto has served as a consultant to banks, manufacturing firms, aerospace companies, health care agencies and educational institutions. He serves on a number of corporate and public boards, including Columbia Gas of Ohio; M/I Homes; The Children's Place; United Way of Central Ohio; Experience Columbus (formerly the Greater Columbus Convention and Visitors Bureau); and the Columbus-Franklin County Finance Authority; serves on the national arbitrator lists of American Arbitration Association and Federal Mediation and Conciliation Services; and has served in leadership capacities for a wide variety of voluntary organizations. He is a member of the Academy of Management, American Psychological Association, Labor and Employment Relations Association and American Association for the Advancement of Science. He served as president of the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business-The International Association for Management Education from October 1996 to June 1998.
