Dear Marilyn,

Thanks to you and the other members of your working group for the the thorough perusal of the IS semester conversion proposal. I actually enjoyed the meeting and the discussion.

I would also like to assure you that on the semester advising sheet for each of the ten specializations the number of hours for "completion of 1103 or equivalent" will be changed from "4" to "0-12".

Best,

Tony

Current Program/Plan Name	International Studies
Proposed Program/Plan Name	International Studies - INTSTDBA
Program/Plan Code Abbreviation	INTSTD-BA
Current Degree Title	Bachelor of Arts

Credit Hour Explanation

Program credit hour requirements		A) Number of credit hours in current program (Quarter credit hours)	B) Calculated result for 2/3rds of current (Semester credit hours)	C) Number of credit hours required for proposed program (Semester credit hours)	D) Change in credit hours
Total minimum credit hours required for completion of program		50	33.3	42	8.7
Required credit hours offered by the unit	Minimum	0	0.0	0	0.0
	Maximum	0	0.0	0	0.0
Required credit hours offered outside of the unit	Minimum	0	0.0	0	0.0
	Maximum	0	0.0	0	0.0
Required prerequisite credit hours not included above	Minimum	5	3.3	7	3.7
	Maximum	15	10.0	10	0.0

Explain any change in credit hours if the difference is more than 4 semester credit hours between the values listed in columns B and C for any row in the above table

Comparing columns b and C, the large increase in then number of credit hours required outside the unit is explained by the semester hours in column C including both an additional required course (usually taught outside IS) and the hours required to complete a foreign language minor.

Program Learning Goals

Note: these are required for all undergraduate degree programs and majors now, and will be required for all graduate and professional degree programs in 2012. Nonetheless, all programs are encouraged to complete these now.

Program Learning Goals

- Students are competent in a foreign language.
- Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- Students understand the diversity of influences - historical, economic, political, social and cultural - that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

Assessment

Assessment plan includes student learning goals, how those goals are evaluated, and how the information collected is used to improve student learning. An assessment plan is required for undergraduate majors and degrees. Graduate and professional degree programs are encouraged to complete this now, but will not be required to do so until 2012.

Is this a degree program (undergraduate, graduate, or professional) or major proposal? Yes

Does the degree program or major have an assessment plan on file with the university Office of Academic Affairs? Yes

Summarize how the program's current quarter-based assessment practices will be modified, if necessary, to fit the semester calendar.

IS and the many departments contributing courses to the major use a variety of assessment procedures, none of which depends on whether the program is run under quarters or semesters. Thus, we do not anticipate any changes to the program's assessment practices.

Pre-Major

Does this Program have a Pre-Major? Yes

The introduction of a pre-major was formally approved on February 17, 2010.

It is designed to ensure that students complete the minimum foreign language requirements (completion of the GEC 104 language class, 1103 under the semester system) before being able to enroll as an International Studies major.

Previously, many majors close to graduation had not completed the major's foreign language requirement and were forced either to change their major or to delay their graduation to satisfy this requirement.

A fuller explanation of the Pre-Major requirements can be found in the attachments to this submission.

Re: Arts and Sciences Program Proposals from the Social and Behavioral Sciences Division

Arts and Sciences is pleased to submit the following programs from the Social and Behavioral Sciences Division to the Office of Academic Affairs for conversion from quarters to semesters. The programs have been approved by the faculty members and chair of the originating unit, and reviewed and approved by the divisional advisory panel, a subcommittee of the ASC Committee on Curriculum and Instruction (CCI), and the full CCI. The vote for approval of all programs at the full CCI was unanimous.

Arts and Sciences General Education (GE) Program: The GE program for untagged B.A. and B.S. degrees in Arts and Sciences was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs on May 26, 2010, after receiving approval from the Arts and Sciences Faculty Senate. All the programs presented here follow the approved GE program.

College of Arts and Sciences Transition Policy: The College of Arts and Sciences is committed to the principles outlined in the university's Pledge to Undergraduate Students. Each unit has a plan on how best to assist its majors and minors through the transition. And the Arts and Sciences Academic Advising Services will advise students on how to transition their GE program. Dual advising is the existing process used in Arts and Sciences and will continue under semesters.

Re: International Studies BA Semester Conversion Proposal

May 3, 2011

Larry:

The Sciences subcommittee of the CCI met on Monday, May 2 to review the semester conversion proposal for the BA degree offered by the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP). The program offers ten distinct specializations. The proposal is described as undergoing significant changes from its quarter version. These changes were prompted by an external review in Autumn of 2007, which recommended a more rigorous foreign language requirement as well as an increased proportion of upper level, required courses for each specialization. To this end, the program was revised: the major prerequisites will now include 1103 or equivalent coursework in a foreign language and all students in the major will now be required to complete a minor in an approved foreign language minor. Also, each track will now require two additional courses, both to satisfy the recommendations of the external review and to reach the university-wide 30 credit hour minimum for the majors.

The degree offers ten distinct specializations. All specializations include pre-major requirements (prerequisites), required foundation courses, “critical perspective” electives, major elective, and the foreign language minor requirement. All specializations have four common program learning goals, and each specialization also includes two unique learning goals. These last two learning goals in many cases are worded differently from the common goals (which begin with a “students” + verb formula). The committee may request that these specialization goals be revised so that they are parallel with the four common goals.

The subcommittee had a few corrections to request before the proposal goes forward:

1. Foreign language courses will be four (4) credits, not three (3). This will require a change to the PACER form (the maximum prerequisite hours will be ten (10) rather than nine (9), and a change to all specialization course lists.
2. The cover letter from Director Tony Mughan (page 2, second paragraph) states that “as of Autumn 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language.” The subcommittee wondered whether it wouldn't be better to initiate this change as of Summer 2012 rather than Autumn.
3. The list of semester courses for the West European Studies specialization includes IS 3350E. Should this be IS 3350 (rather than the E version), or perhaps either IS 3350 and IS3350E?

With the understanding that these corrections and queries would be addressed, the subcommittee approved the proposal unanimously and now forwards it to the full CCI for review.

Thank you.

Professor Larry Krissek
Chair, Arts and Sciences CCI

Dear Professor Krissek:

The Undergraduate International Studies Program (UGISP) is home to the International Studies (IS) major (BA) with ten specializations, which are:

1. Africa;
2. East Asia;
3. Eastern Europe;
4. Latin America;
5. Middle East;
6. Western Europe;
7. Development;
8. International Relations & Diplomacy;
9. Security & Intelligence;
10. World Economy & Business.

UGISP is also the home of the Globalization major (BA).

An external review team (ERT) assessed the IS program and its ten specializations and minors at the end of 2007. While recognizing the quality of the IS major, the ERT thought that the foreign language requirement could be strengthened and that some additional in-depth, upper division rigor would improve the major's quality. In response to these suggestions, UGISP's semester conversion plan has added the requirement that majors take a minor in a foreign language and added an additional upper division required course.

The Social Sciences Disciplinary Advisory Panel (SS DAP) reviewed the specializations of the IS major and made suggestions to improve an already well thought out conversion plan. With the inclusion of these suggestions the SS DAP and I enthusiastically endorse the IS major and its ten specializations and submit them to you for CCI's review.

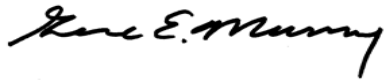

The Globalization major is independent of the IS major and relatively new. Nevertheless it was determined that the Globalization major should adopt the recommendations of the ERT for UGISP strengthen the foreign language requirement by requiring a minor and add an in-depth upper division requirement. The SS AP reviewed the Globalization Studies major and recommended some improvements to the very good conversion plan, which were accepted. The SS DAP and I then strongly endorsed the semester conversion plan for the Globalization Studies major and now submit it to CCI for its consideration.

Finally, UGISP also sponsors ten minors, nine of them related to International Studies specializations and one tied to the Globalization Major. They are:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies
10. Globalization

These minors were reviewed by the SS DAP, which made suggestions for minor improvements to to semester conversion plans. These suggestions were incorporated into the plans and SS DAP and I strongly endorse the conversion plans and submit them to CCI for its consideration.

Sincerely,

Gene E. Mummy
Associate Dean of Arts and Sciences/Social and Behavioral Sciences

(SECURITY & INTELLIGENCE SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

1. COMPLETION OF A FOREIGN LANGUAGE MINOR.	3	3		3

PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:

- A. Students are competent in a foreign language.
- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the threats to the security and well-being of states and their peoples.
- F. Students examine states' response to these threats by gathering, analyzing and disseminating intelligence information.

(WEST EUROPEAN STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

1. COMPLETION OF A FOREIGN LANGUAGE MINOR.	3	3		3

PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:

- A. Students are competent in a foreign language.
- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the region's cultures, history, and economic and political trajectories.
- F. Students analyze the dynamic interplay of economic, political and social systems in Western Europe.

(SLAVIC & EAST EUROPEAN STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies. A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

- c. Undergraduate associate degree programs

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Subject: Pre-Major

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

(MIDDLE EAST STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

c. Undergraduate associate degree programs

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:

- A. Students are competent in a foreign language.
- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the region's cultures, history, and economic and political trajectories.
- F. Students analyze the dynamic interplay of economic, political and social systems in the Middle East.

(LATIN AMERICAN STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

- b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

(AFRICAN STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

4. COMPLETION OF A FOREIGN LANGUAGE MINOR.	3	3		3
PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:
A. Students are competent in a foreign language.

- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the region's cultures, history, and economic and political trajectories.
- F. Students analyze the dynamic interplay of economic, political and social systems in Africa.

(EAST ASIAN STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies. A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

& Professor, Political Science

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Subject: Pre-Major

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:

- A. Students are competent in a foreign language.
- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the region's cultures, history, and economic and political trajectories.
- F. Students analyze the dynamic interplay of economic, political and social systems in East Asia.

(WORLD ECONOMY & BUSINESS SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Subject: Pre-Major

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

4. COMPLETION OF A FOREIGN LANGUAGE MINOR.	3	3		3

PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:

- A. Students are competent in a foreign language.
- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of stability and change in contemporary international economic and financial relationships.
- F. Students explore how these relationships increasingly shape the economies and societies of states.

(DEVELOPMENT STUDIES SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies. A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

& Professor, Political Science

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Subject: Pre-Major

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.

Randy

W. Randy Smith

Vice Provost for Academic Programs

4.COMPLETION OF A FOREIGN LANGUAGE MINOR.	3	3		3

PROGRAM LEARNING GOALS:

- A. Students are competent in a foreign language.
- B. Students complete a rigorous liberal arts education that is international in focus and prepares them for a range of careers.
- C. Students understand the diversity of influences-historical, economic, political, social and cultural-that shape domestic and international processes and outcomes.
- D. Students master critical reasoning and cross-cultural communications skills.

SPECIALIZATION LEARNING GOALS:

- E. Students develop an interdisciplinary understanding of the history and theory of development in the poorer regions of the world.
- F. Students examine the major challenges in the way of these countries' economic, political, and social advancement.

(INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS & DIPLOMACY SPECIALIZATION)

Cover Letter for Quarter-to-Semester (Q to S) Proposals from the Undergraduate International Studies Program (UISP)

This letter is intended to lay out plans for extensive changes to UISP with the Q to S conversion and to explain why these changes have been undertaken. Two pieces of background information are essential to this task, the first concerning the nature of the program under the quarter system and the second the recommendations of the external committee that reviewed the program thoroughly at the end of 2007.

Current Program: International Studies is an interdisciplinary program offering majors and minors in 10 specializations (see below).

- i) African Studies;
- ii) East Asian Studies;
- iii) Slavic & East European Studies;
- iv) Latin American Studies;
- v) Middle East Studies;
- vi) West European Studies ;
- vii) Development Studies;
- viii) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- ix) Security & Intelligence;
- x) World Economy & Business.

IS also has administrative responsibility for a separate major and minor program, Globalization Studies. This free-standing major was an independent initiative of a group of arts/humanities and social science faculty members and was placed in International Studies for administrative purposes. It will be the subject of a separate semester conversion request.

All ten IS specializations are 50-hour majors that draw on courses from teaching units across the campus. 10 of these hours have to be in a foreign language beyond the 104 level. The remaining 40 hours are split into 15 hours of coursework (3 courses) required of all students majoring in a particular specialization and 25 hours of electives (5 courses) to be chosen in consultation with an advisor.

Committee Recommendations: UISP was reviewed by a committee of three distinguished academics from other universities (Michigan, Mississippi and Yale) in the Autumn quarter of 2007. Generally, the review was favorable, although the final report did articulate some concerns with the program. In particular, it expressed the view that the foreign language requirement, being barely beyond the introductory level, is inadequate for an International Studies major. It also wondered whether more rigor and structure could not be introduced into the program by having a larger number of upper-level, required courses in each specialization.

After much discussion with the UISP Advisory Committee, chairs of contributing departments, deans and scholars who teach on the program, it was decided that the Q to S conversion provided the opportunity to act on the review committee's recommendation. Therefore, two proposals for change are made in this submission. One, as of Summer 2012, all entering IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language; all the affected foreign language chairs have agreed to cope with the extra demand for places on their courses. The students themselves have also generally endorsed this demand. In a Spring 2010 survey of existing majors, 83 per cent said that they would still major in International Studies if a foreign language minor were compulsory for them.

The other change to the major is the introduction of two additional courses to each specialization in order to satisfy the university-wide requirement that all majors be at least 30 hours in length under semesters. One of these additional courses has been allocated to the "Required Courses" section in each specialization, as is reflected in the "Credit Hour Explanation" section of the IS conversion submission. Another important observation pertinent to this section is that IS has many courses that are cross-listed with, and taught by, departmental faculty. For the purposes of counting credit hours here, cross-listed courses are counted as IS courses, which gives the impression that IS is responsible for the teaching of more courses than it actually is.

The following are the specializations in UISP

- a. Undergraduate bachelors degree programs and/or majors.

Area Studies:

- 1) African Studies;
- 2) East Asian Studies;
- 3) Slavic & East European Studies;
- 4) Latin American Studies;
- 5) Middle East Studies;
- 6) West European Studies;

Thematic:

- 7) Development Studies ;
- 8) International Relations & Diplomacy;
- 9) Security & Intelligence;
- 10) World Economy & Business

Students can also double major in IS as long as one specialization comes from the Area Studies category of specializations above and the other from the Thematic category.

b. Undergraduate minors:

MINORS:

1. African Studies
2. Development Studies
3. East Asian Studies
4. International Relations & Diplomacy
5. Latin American Studies
6. Middle East Studies
7. Security & Intelligence
8. Slavic & East European Studies
9. West European Studies

A minor in IS is available to any university student who is not majoring in International Studies.
A minor in IS is also available to majors in IS as long as their major specialization is in one of the Area Studies or Thematic categories above and their minor is in the other.

1. Rationale for program changes and a description of how changes will benefit students and enhance program quality.

In 2007, UISP was externally reviewed and the committee's report articulated some concerns about the program, mainly concerning academic rigor. It questioned in particular whether the foreign language requirement, currently barely beyond the introductory level, is adequate for an international studies major. It also suggested that more rigor and structure would result from having a larger number of upper-level, required courses. After extensive discussion with stakeholders, two substantial changes are proposed for the semester conversion. One, as of 2012, all IS majors will have to complete a minor in a foreign language. Two, all majors in a specialization will have to take an additional required course.

Transition policy

Students who began their degree under quarters will not be penalized as we move to semesters, either in terms of progress towards their degree or their expected date of graduation. Those who enter the university before Summer 2012 will complete ten courses (quarter or semester) for their major. The sequence of classes in the major is also very flexible. We do not see the need for any bridge courses in International Studies.

Tony:

The proposal to establish a pre-major for the undergraduate major in International Studies was approved by the Council on Academic Affairs at its meeting on February 17, 2010. Professor Jay Hobgood and I, as Chair and Vice Chair of the Council, presented the proposal on your behalf. Thank you for attending the meeting and responding so effectively to questions/comments.

No additional level of review/approval is necessary. This action will be included in the Council's next Annual Activities Report to the University Senate (June 2010).

This message represents my formal communication with you about this action. Please keep a copy for your file on the proposal and I will do the same for the file in the Office of Academic Affairs.

If you have any questions or comments, please contact Professor Hobgood (hobgood.1) or me.
